IL DUCE ORDERS ADMINISTRATIVE CHANGES TODAY

Mussolini Assumes Fifth of 14 Portfolios in Cabinet

Rome, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today announced a shake-up in his cabinet and an important change in colonial administration, with the Duke of Aosta being named Viceroy of Ethiopia and Il Duce himself assuming the African portfolio.

The 39-year-old Duke of Aosta, a tall officer of the air corps who helped conquer Ethiopia, was appointed in the place of the veteran colonial warrior, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. Aosta is a first cousin of King Vittorio Emanuele.

In taking charge of the ministry for Italian Africa, Mussolini replaced Alessandro Lessona. Il Duce honored Gen. Attilio Teruzzi, a veteran of the Spanish campaign, by naming him first assistant in the African ministry.

Finance Minister Replaced
Finance Minister Thion Di Revel, Jr., was replaced by Felice Guarneri, who had been his secretary. Renato Ricci, former head of the Fascist youth organizations, became an undersecretary in the ministry of corporations.

By today's shakeup, Mussolini assumed the fifth of 14 portfolios in the cabinet—besides the premiership. He is now minister of interior, war, navy, air and colonies.

Putting his strong hand directly on Italy's new African empire, Il Duce announced important changes would be made toward consolidation in administrative affairs.

The installation of Guarneri as finance minister indicated the importance the premier expected financial affairs to play in empire development. Guarneri had been director of foreign exchange operations.

Maiden Speech

Senator Dixie Graves Applauded After Initial Argument

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Vice President Garner has grown weary of speeches after some 35 years in Congress, but even he sat down and listened when Senator Dixie Bibb Graves of Alabama had her say about lynching.

Close attention—something no other Senator has had this session—was accorded Mrs. Graves when she took part yesterday in the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

"I am not going to talk just to consume time," she said. "I just want to tell you what I think about this bill."

Twenty minutes later, when she had finished, her colleagues applauded. It was a rarely-given tribute, frowned on by rules. Republicans joined Democrats in shaking her hand.

The new Alabama Senator, appointed to office by her Governor-husband, arose for her maiden Senate speech after a series of consultations with her southern colleagues.

"I abhor lynching," she said quietly.

"But no emergency exists. Lynching is rapidly decreasing. x x x

"There is no justice in this bill."

"If you pass this bill you will say to the world that we have a group of southern states that can not or will not enforce the law, and that we will send our Federal law down to take control."

Mrs. Graves urged "misinformed" proponents to investigate conditions.

"You will find in every section of the south," she said, "local peace officers who are anxious and alert to protect their prisoners."

"You will find state officers will this bill," she said, "local peace officers who are anxious and alert to protect their prisoners."

The anti-lynching bill would seek to punish peace officers with jail terms and political subdivisions with damages in even of lynchings. Others joined Senator Graves yesterday in the week-long filibuster. It will be resumed Monday, to continue until the farm bill is ready for debate.

HARRIS THEATRE, CHICAGO

A special Thanksgiving Day matinee will be given Thursday, November 25, by "You Can't Take It With You," the Pulitzer Prize comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman which has been playing to capacity crowds for 40 weeks at the Harris Theatre in Chicago.

This will be in addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees given by the play. For the convenience of out-of-town patrons, the Thanksgiving Day matinee will start at 3 p. m.

Tickets for this performance and for all other performances for the next four weeks are now selling by mail order or at the box-office of the Harris Theatre.

"You Can't Take It With You," which is being presented by Sam H. Harris, recently broke Chicago's long-run record for the past 12 years. Up to this season, the long-run record for dramatic plays was held by "Three Men On A Horse," with a run of 37 weeks in 1934-35. The only other long runs of the past two decades were "Abie's Irish Rose," with 58 weeks in 1924-25, and "Lightnin'," with 67 weeks in 1920-21. "You Can't Take It With You" began its 38th week in Chicago on October 24, and gives every indication of adding many more weeks to its total.

It has been estimated that nearly 400,000 persons have already seen "You Can't Take It With You" in Chicago. Of this total approximately 35% have been out-of-town patrons.

Average Turkey Will Serve 10 Plentifully

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The average Thanksgiving turkey is big enough to serve 10 persons and give them all second helpings, the agriculture department said.

The department added apologetically it had not yet attained its goal of producing a strain of smaller-bodied turkeys, just large enough to feed the average American family of four.

A more plentiful supply of grain was held responsible for a slight increase in size as compared with last year.

ILLINOIS TOPS IOWA IN ACRE YIELD OF CORN

Average for State is 46 Bushels Against 45 for Hawkeyes

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Illinois didn't lose all the corn crop honors to Iowa this year.

Iowa has the biggest crop, but the corn yield per acre was largest in Illinois for 1937, Agriculture Statistician A. J. Sturatt pointed out today.

Last year, with bad drouth conditions west of the Mississippi, Illinois was the leading corn state, ending for one season Iowa's supremacy.

"Iowa is away ahead on acreage and therefore has the biggest crop for 1937," Sturatt said, "but Illinois farmers can crow about the biggest yield."

The November 1 report showed that Illinois corn averaged 46 bushels to the acre, the highest figure in the state's history. Iowa's yield this year in 45 bushels.

The reason, Sturatt explained, is that Illinois had excellent crop conditions, while western Iowa suffered from drouth.

Surratt's semi-monthly report for the state and federal agricultural departments said 75 per cent of corn husking and 90 per cent of soybean threshing and combining has been completed. It said:

"Winter wheat condition improved under the favorable weather conditions of the first half of November. Farm work with the possible exception of plowing, which was retarded by earlier dry conditions, is well advanced for this time of year. . . .

"The market movement of corn has been earlier and in much larger volume than usual. Livestock feeding will be heavier than in recent years as a result of liberal feed supplies on Illinois farms."

BEGINS SENTENCE WHICH MAY CAUSE DEATH IN PRISON

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Frank J. Link, former Chicago sanitary district trustee, began serving a five-year penitentiary term today, a sentence which his attorney contended would "very likely cause his death."

Link was taken from his Lake Shore Drive home in Chicago and brought to the prison in a police ambulance last night after Dr. Meyer H. Levy, Cook county jail physician, pronounced him well enough to stand the trip. Link is 67 years old.

Convicted in 1932 of conspiracy to defraud the sanitary district of $6,500,000 during the so-called "whoopie era" in 1928-29, Link fought the case through the Illinois Supreme Court and was denied a review of the case by the United States Supreme Court.

His attorney, Robert Turney, made a last effort to have the sentence stayed yesterday, but Chief Justice Cornelius Harrington of the criminal court ruled the court did not have jurisdiction.

Link was one of nine supervising officials of the Chicago sewage system who were indicted for conspiracy. Two died before trial, three were convicted and four won freedom. One of the three convicted died later.

John T. Miller, former plant maintenance supervisor, who was given a six-months jail term, has announced he would return to Chicago from Springfield next Monday to begin serving his sentence.

Oliver Goldsmith is said to be the only English writer who excelled in three branches of literature—as a novelist with "The Vicar of Wakefield," as a playwright with "She Stoops to Conquer," and as a poet, with "The Deserted Village."

DECLARE IMPORTS DISPLACING U. S. CORN IN STARCH

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Secretary Cordell Hull had under investigation today a report by Rep. Hugh M. Rigney, of Arthur, Ill., that imported tapioca, sago and cassava were costing American farmers $18,000,000 a year by displacing domestic corn in starch making.

Rigney said the report was based on information from employees of the Staley Corn Products Manufacturing company at Decatur, Ill. They told, he said, that they were "being denied full-time work because of the competition presented by sago and tapioca being imported from the Netherlands."

Hull advised Rigney yesterday that an investigation was underway and that he would give the Illinois congressman a further reply when the inquiry is complete.

Rigney supplied Hull with figures purporting to show that in 1935 approximately 240,000,000 pounds of tapioca and sago, "equal to 7,280,000 bushels of corn," were imported duty free.

The congressman's report added that "in 1936 these imports were greatly increased and, according to the Corn Industries Research foundation, 270 Broadway, New York, there were 301,000,000 pounds imported during the first seven months of 1937."

SHERIFF MILLER ELECTED STATE VICE-PRESIDENT

Quincy Newspaper Makes Interesting Reference To Dixon Sheriff

Sheriff Ward Miller returned home yesterday after a trip to Quincy, where he attended the annual convention of the Illinois Sheriff's association, and was elected to the vice presidency of the organization. The Lee county sheriff declined to enter the race for the presidency when urged by the nominating committee. The Quincy Herald-Whig of Thursday evening contained the following interesting reference to the Dixon sheriff:

"Only three sheriffs in Illinois—and there are 102—have ever held office, then 'laid out' and been elected a second time. Ward Miller, Dixon, sheriff of Lee county, a former big league ball player; Sheriff Charles Nash, Cambridge, and Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle, Waukegan, now in office, are the only ones in the association who have held office a second time."

"Miller was elected in 1926 and served until 1930, then was appointed chief deputy and in 1933, was elected a second time. His term will expire in December, 1938. In addition to his work as a law enforcement officer, Miller had an outstanding career as a ball player."

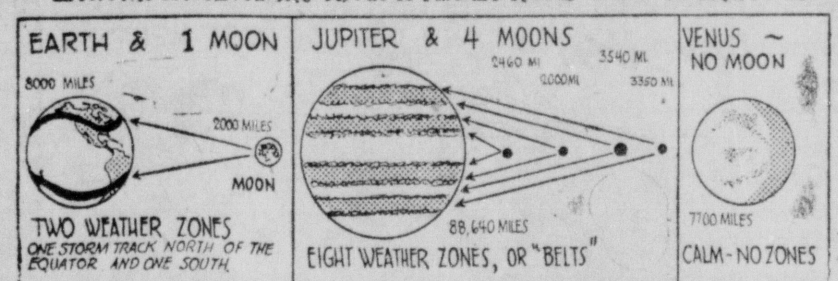

"Miller played ball in Quincy in 1906, when he started his professional career, when this city was in the old Iowa league with Boone, Waterloo, Fort Dodge, Marshalltown, Clinton, Burlington and Oskaloosa. He was with Fort Dodge and played in the outfield. In 1909, Sheriff Miller went to the big leagues and played with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati in 1910, and in 1911 was with Montreal."

Broke World's Record

"While playing with Montreal, Miller broke the world's record for circling the bases, making the circuit in 13.2 seconds. The record did not stand in this country, however, because it was made in the Canadian city. In 1912 and 1913, Miller was with the Chicago Cubs and in 1914 and 1915 with the old Federal league club in St. Louis. The next two years were spent with the St. Louis Browns and then he was sent to Salt Lake City in 1918. After playing in 1919 and 1920 with the Kansas City Blues in the American Association, Miller retired as a ball player and since then has been engaged in law enforcement work."

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

EACH MOON REVOLVING ABOUT A PLANET RAISES TWO WEATHER ZONES

Moons and Weather of the Worlds

Air tides raised by the moon in the atmosphere of the earth appear to us as wind and storm. We live on the bottom of a great sea of air about the earth and the currents in the air caused by the gravity pull of the moon appear to us as weather.

Since moons—and the sun—are the cause of weather, then every planet which has one or more moons should also have weather, and those planets which have no moons should not have weather.

"The largest planet in the solar system is Jupiter, which has a mass thirteen hundred times that of Earth. Jupiter has nine moons, four of which are large. One of them is almost the size of the planet Mars, and Jupiter is the stormiest planet in the sky. Winds of 250 miles per hour are common on Jupiter. A wind of such velocity on Earth would reek terrific destruction. A storm on Earth of 120 miles per hour is very severe. Here on the earth our moon generates two zones of weather, one north of the equator, and one south of the equator, and these zones follow along definite storm tracks. On Jupiter each of the four moons generates its own weather zone, so Jupiter has eight well defined tracks of storms, four north of its equator and four south."

The planet nearest to the earth is Venus, a world nearly the equal of Earth in size. Earth is 8,000 miles in diameter, while Venus is 7,700. If you were to go to Venus, you would hardly know you were not standing on the Earth. Venus differs from Earth in one important respect—Venus has no moon. Astronomers looking down on Venus through telescopes see a world unbelievably calm, surrounded by a shining white veil of air and clouds. The turbulent winds of Jupiter are completely absent on Venus. The air of Venus is practically never broken by storm, but has only lazy winds due to the attraction of the far off earth.

Earth's moon is large, and is therefore able to lift vigorous tides in the earth's air, but Earth's tidal plan of weather appears on many of the other planets also.

The Coming Winter

Many readers have written to Prof. Maxwell asking what kind of weather to expect during the winter of 1937-1938. Will the weather be colder than last year or warmer? Will we have heavy snows or light snows? Prof. Maxwell has prepared a forecast of the weather to be expected during the winter months. It is yours with the compliments of this newspaper. Address Prof. Selby Maxwell, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped (3c) self-addressed envelope for reply. Your comments and suggestions for this department will be welcome.

A Lively Time

After the choir of the Church of the Brethren had completed their practice Wednesday night it was decided to give Mr. and Mrs. Leland Blocher an old fashioned charivari, and from the noise and the fun one could imagine that their decision was carried out to the letter. Anyhow everybody had just lots of good clean fun. Leland and his bride proved equal to the occasion.

Road Open

State route 71 which crosses from east to west through the center of Lee county was thrown open to traffic on Sunday. The twelve mile strip connects with U. S. 52 about three miles north of Amboy, and connects with U. S. 51 about 12 miles south of Rochelle.

The road is built across a section that was formerly the Inlet swamp and there has been quite a lot of fill for the grade. There is only one curve in the 12 mile strip, a long and gradual turn in Viola township.

Extra Activities

High school students are busy people. Practically every student is taking part in at least one outside activity in addition to the regular school work. Most of the students are working on several outside activities and they are the really busy people. This you will realize when you study the schedule below.

This schedule is one which is very typical of a week's extracurricular activities.

Week of Nov. 12.

Monday: 8:40 sophomore class meeting. 3:06 boys' gym. 3:45 junior play practice on stage. 7:00 basket ball practice at gym. 9:00 instrumental lessons. 7:30 board meeting in commercial room.

Tuesday: 8:50 general assembly on activity point system. 3:06 girls' gym. 3:45 basket ball practice. 7:15 junior play practice on stage.

Wednesday: 8:40 pep meeting in the gym. (Council meeting next week). 3:06 boys' gym. 3:45 junior play practice on stage. 7:00 basket ball practice.

Thursday: 3:06 girls' gym. 3:45 boys' basket ball. 7:30 orchestra on stage of gym.

Friday: 8:40 pep meeting in gym. 3:06 G. A. A. gym activities. 7:00 basket ball, Ashton vs. Franklin Grove.

Most students realize and take advantage of the fact that extracurricular activities are valuable in the development of ability to work and play with other people. Students have an opportunity to develop socially. They learn a great many practical and useful things. They may become interested in some one or two activities which will later become hobbies with them. Thus, their leisure time can be enjoyable and useful time throughout the rest of their lives.

FARMER DIGS UP RING

LOST 20 YEARS
Auburn, Neb. (AP)—Carl Gebers, Auburn farmer, knocked off a piece of dirt containing a gold ring recently while cleaning the shovel of his cultivator.

He told the editor of the Auburn newspaper about it, and a little more than a week later received a letter from Mrs. Henry Unland of Jordan, Mont., who said she had read the story and recalled she had a gold ring 20 years ago when the Unland family lived on the farm now owned by Gebers.

Gebers sent the ring to Mrs. Unland. Following the example of Italy, France recently enacted legislation requiring certain of its motor vehicles to utilize wood gas or other motor fuel substitutes produced within the country.

STAKES AND SPECTACLES ON FAR EAST TRADE

There has been a great deal of toflossy talk about "our stake in the Far East," and the value of trade with China and Japan as affecting American policy there.

Instead of windy generalities about such trade, the thing to do is to put on a pair of spectacles and look closely. The Commerce Department's most recent trade figures are good ones on which to focus the spectacles.

They reveal that for the month of August, American exports were as follows:

Buyer	1936	1937
China	$ 4,810,000	$ 6,081,000
Japan	10,763,000	24,644,000
U. S. imports from these countries during the same periods were:
From China	$ 4,693,000	$ 7,961,000
From Japan	16,948,000	16,297,000

Now of course this is an appreciable stake, and helps greatly in the building up of American export trade, which was $178,975,000 in August, 1936, and jumped to $277,695,000 in August, 1937.

The 1936 figures are more reliable as a gauge for the future, because the increase in both China's and Japan's imports from the United States this year is clearly due in both cases largely to their demand for war materials, airplanes for the Chinese, and scrap-iron and other similar supplies for the Japanese.

Such trade is temporary. We found that out to our cost when Europe fought in 1914-1918. After the war it suddenly dropped away, leaving us holding a great bag of increased production facilities and no sales. Therefore the "war boom" in sales to China and Japan is nothing to get enthusiastic about.

Taking the figures for 1936, before the present war began, we find that American exports to Japan were only exceeded by those to Canada and the United Kingdom, while we sent as much export to Cuba as to China, and more to Australia and South Africa.

Even under the "war boom" conditions in China and Japan, causing them to take an abnormal amount of American goods, only a fraction more than 10 per cent of America's rising exports went in August to both countries combined. And of course export takes only a small percentage of all American production.

Beside this trade, with its tremendous risks of war, the market of peaceful nations who can trade with us and with each other in amity and good will, together with that tremendous home market that is the greatest of all, look very attractive indeed.

LET THEM CHOOSE THEIR POISON

If the government is bent on a policy of administering death potions to the railroads of the country, it should let the rails choose their poison.

It used to be a fair statement to say that if the railroads got any money in their treasuries it was taken away from them immediately either by the brotherhoods or by the taxing agencies.

Now they do not even wait for the railways to get the money. Wages and taxes are forced upward and the receivers (for principal railways) are in bankruptcy or engaged in refinancing operations are told to go out and get the money.

Railways have only one means of getting money, fees for transportation; the collection of fares from passengers and fees for transportation of freight.

They are going before the interstate commerce commission, asking for an increase of 15 percent in their revenues.

They have stated plainly to the public that they were in no wise able to resist the demands for increased wages for employees, even on the basis of depressed conditions, as the government machinery was set against them. The only alternative is to go out and collect the sum from the consumer.

"Officer, how much money has this pickpocket got," the police judge inquired.

"Fifteen dollars."

"The fine is twenty-five dollars. Turn him loose in the crowd and let him get the other ten."

Whatever the railroads take from the pockets of the people now they take on order of public officials. They are regimented, straitjacketed, sick, sore, lame, and disordered—on government orders.

If they are to be given a fatal potion, we favor allowing them to choose the poison, and, at that, there isn't much choice.

THE UNCONSTITUTIONAL LAWS

"I believe that the congress can constitutionally write an adequate farm act that will be well within the broad meaning and purpose of the constitution."

"I hope and believe that the supreme court will not again deny to farmers the protection which it now accords to others."

Foregoing are quotations from President Roosevelt's message to the congress convened in special session. The president undertakes to put an odium upon the court as though it were a legislative body putting out favors here and denying them there. The court merely passed upon rights of persons who went to the courts of their country seeking to have them upheld.

Senator Wheeler of Montana stated the situation tersely when the court upheld labor legislation. He said that when laws were drawn by the congress, which has experience in drawing them with relation to their constitutionality, they were upheld. The laws that were found unconstitutional were drawn by nobody-knows-whom, were handed down to the congress as something untouchable, and they were passed as "must" legislation, without dotting of an i or crossing of a t.

When this method was dropped and the congressional committees began to function as under other administrations, legislation was sent up to the courts that was found to be within constitutional borders.

The court is neither denying protection to farmers nor according it to others. Those matters are up to the congress and the president.

The president says he believes congress can constitutionally write an adequate farm act, which is more to the point than the other assertion. With the court's decision in front of it, the congress probably will be able to write a constitutional law, but if it can't the fault is with congress and not a matter of the court either "denying" or "according" protection to any one.

There still seems to exist somewhere an idea of bullying the court.

QUAINT CUSTOMS

In the eastern part of the country is a religious sect whose members still cling to the quaint old beliefs that a man's word is as good as his contract, that one should not borrow more than he intends to repay, and that the simple things of life are best.

Queer, these people who are so far behind the times. They know not the joy of installment purchases, double dealing, onerous debt. Their beliefs set them entirely apart.

Yet they live in peace and contentment, in fellowship and friendship with their neighbors, unworried by tomorrow's reckoning. And the hurrying, blase world might find the utopia it seeks in the life of these fortunate, care-free farmers.

sion can stop him. He is omnipotent. No other person in the government has such power.

Reason for this is the praiseworthy aim of keeping the Library from being a political football. It is subject neither to patronage nor civil service. Putnam alone rules.

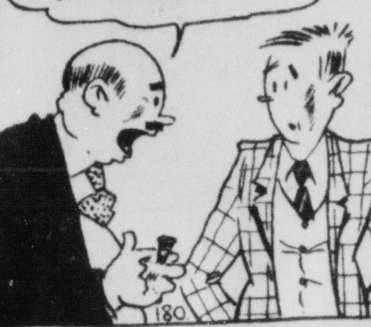

As a result, those who govern the Library are all Republicans, while below them is a small army of highly educated college men of no political faith. After several years of work they are still drawing their starting salaries of $1260.

However, those who bask in Putnam's favor enjoy special privilege. For instance, Leicester Holland draws $5,000 as Chief of the Division of Fine Arts, is permitted to work for the Carnegie Foundation; also travels once a week to Philadelphia to lecture for the University of Pennsylvania. Reputed salary: $5,000.

Also, David C. Mearns, Chief Assistant in Reading Room, has a brother as an assistant chief of the Classification Division. Then there is Edward Rogers, Personnel Officer, whose sister is in the Music Division; Robert Gooch, Custodian of the Reading Room, whose brother is an assistant; Charles Ray, Chief Engineer, whose son is his assistant; and George W. Morgan, Chief in charge of binding.

WHAT-A RAISE?
—YOU'RE BREAKING
MY HEART.

Imagine yourself in this embarrassing predicament.

A young man went into his employer's office and asked for a raise in salary. The employer, a very shrewd man, said "This is leap year and has 366 days. You work only 8 hours a day which is one-third of the day. Therefore you really only work one-third of a year or 122 days. You don't work Sundays so deduct 52 days, leaving 70 days. This company doesn't work Saturdays so we deduct another 52 days, leaving 18. There are 4 recognized holidays so we now have only 14 days left and you get two weeks vacation each year so it seems as though you don't work here at all and you're mighty lucky to get the money you do."

There's no answer to this unless you want to pick out the obvious flaws in the employer's reasoning.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating Albert Edward Wiggam, S.S.A. Author of pastime with "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

ARE THERE MORE THINGS IN THE WORLD THAT DISGUST WOMEN THAN DISGUST MEN? YES OR NO—

IS THE OLD ADAGE TRUE, "HE THAT DOES HIS BEST DOES HIS WORST"? YES OR NO—

Answer to Question No. 1

1. You may be surprised to learn that a six hundred page volume of scientific tests and measurements of the actual differences between men and women has just been published—a five-year research—by Prof. L. M. Terman and Catharine Cox Miles, psychologists, and they find that there are many more things that are disgusting to women than to men. Such things as "ragged and dirty fingernails," "untidy clothes," "chewing tobacco," "foul language," the word "gent," "wieners," "body odor," "pimples," "gum chewing," a "boy and girl" petting, "sagging socks on a man," "sniffing," "perverted sex habits" etc. are all more disgusting to women than to men.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, not if we consider the results. If I should do my best to sing a song in public it would neither be well for me nor the audience as they would first mob me, and then leave as fast as possible. It is just this sort of old saw that leads people either to attempt the impossible or else to save their conscience for not doing better. When people say they have done their best, they rarely have—they may have made one last spurt but they have usually failed to prepare well enough in advance to do well.

Ideal Club Enjoys Meeting Wednesday

The annual guest night of the Ideal club at the home of Co. Supt. of Schools and Mrs. L. W. Miller Wednesday evening was a most enjoyable occasion, the features being a sumptuous turkey dinner served by the hostess, and an interesting and instructive address on the south by Mr. Miller, the talk being illustrated by colored pictures thrown on a screen by an opaque projector. The projector employs mirrors to show enlarged views from colored post cards, and the collection of such made by Mr. and Mrs. Miller on a recent trip to Dixie land, brought to the listeners views of many historical and interesting places. The evening was one the club members and their guests will long remember.

Survey Indicates Expenditures of De Pauw Students

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 20—(AP)—DePauw university's 750 men students foot most of the "date" bills, but despite those expensive items they spend less a year than the 450 co-eds.

Paul Coons, advertising manager of the Mirage, school yearbook, said today a tabulation showed DePauw women spent $241,052 annually for clothes, while the men paid out only $235,810.

The average co-ed, Coons said, spent more than $127 for clothes in the last year. Her expenditures included: Hats, $12.10; shoes, $35; negligees, robes and lingerie, $32; purses, $6; gloves, $6, and hose, $19. Among expenditures of the average man, Coons said, were: Ties, $6.88; shirts, $11.70; suspenders, $1.54; tie clasps and collar pins, $1.45, and garters, 74 cents.

The co-eds spent $39,540 for toilet goods, while the men held their expenditures for those items to $34,875.

The men paid out, in proportion, almost as much for cosmetics as the women, Coons reported. For example, the 750 men spent $457 for hair tonic, and the 450 women paid $706.50 for perfumes.

Face powder cost the co-eds $413 annually; nail polish, $148; lipstick, $347, and rouge, $274.50.

Coons said the average man took 40 cents out of his pocket every month for face powder.

Mouth washes cost the men and women students $588 monthly, the tabulation showed.

Girl Scouts

Doings of Troops in Dixon as Related by Scribes

A Girl Scout leaders training course, for all the new leaders in Dixon, is to begin Monday night, November 22, at 7:00 p. m., the meeting to last for two hours. The full course takes at least six hours, and will be given on the following Monday nights, dates November 29 and December 6.

A Brownie leaders training course, will begin Tuesday night, November 23, from 7 to 9 p. m. This also will be a six hour course, and will be given on the following two Tuesday nights. Both courses will be held in the council rooms of the city hall. All leaders of Brownies and Girl Scouts, and all prospective leaders are cordially invited to attend either course.

Troop Doings

Some of the troop scribes are not good hustling reporters. This week we have only four troop reports, however we should be happy, because we finally heard from troop X. The other two troops we have not heard from to date are troop III, our senior high school troop, who is doing an interesting project, and we'd like very much to hear from them. Troop XI, one of our very new troops, has not told us what they have been doing. We are looking forward to their reports.

Troop IV

Troop IV is doing double duty. The new scouts were so interested in their work they decided to carry on their own meeting Saturday morning, at the home of Mrs. Leo Dixon, their leader. All the scouts passed their knots, and told the history of the American flag, and gave many a tall story about their pets. Although it was hard work, all the girls enjoyed doing the requirements.

—Marilyn Griswold, Scribe.

Troop VII

Went on a hike Saturday morning, from Mrs. Bryant's cottage. The girls were delighted with finding several Indian mounds, and many hunted for arrow heads to no avail. Following this they returned to the cottage to cook their dinners. Twenty-one out of the 25 registered in the troop went. Mrs. Heckman, Mrs. Warner, and our two new leaders, Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. Jones stayed with us. Mrs. Dauntler and Mrs. Wilson drove some of the scouts to the cottage.

Troop X

This troop has been quite lively of late, but this is the first time it has broken into print. Our meetings are being held in the office of our Captain, Miss Ruth Leydig. We are devoting most of our time and study to "dramatics." We have many plans in store, but they need development before we tell you about them.

Our registration numbers eleven at present, but we are hoping to expand. We have elected the following officers: chairman, B. "Horace" Thomas; vice chairman, A. "Tillie" Hintz; secretary, M. L. "Stork" Smith; treasurer, E. "Bellabub" Warner.

"Stork" Smith has been elected chairman of the committee to plan a Thanksgiving basket.

Now that we've started to report, you'll be hearing more from us, I hope.

—Mary Louise Smith, Scribe.

Troop IX

A hiking we will go, a hiking we will go, appears to be the theme of our troop. We are planning on passing our second class fire building, so we obtained permission from Mrs. Worsley to use their woods, and invited Mrs. W. Bowers who is an assistant in Troop VI to help us lay and light our fire.

We have been spending some time practicing for a formal ceremony, so that we may be better perfecting in time for our investiture service, in the very near future.

We have many new ideas and plans for the future, so keep your eyes on our troop, because we're doing things!

PROGRESSIVES MEET

Birthday Fellowship Supper Is Enjoyed At Brethren Church

The Brethren church had a very unique service at their church Thursday night in the way of a birthday fellowship supper. In previous years the birthday offerings have been received each Sunday, but this year it was decided to have a fellowship supper and the birthday offerings all brought in at once.

Twelve tables were decorated, representing the months of the year and those attending found the table for the month in which they were born. One hundred forty were present and a delightful evening was enjoyed. The birthday offering amounted to nearly $50, which was put in the building fund. No doubt other offerings will be coming in by those who could not attend the meeting Thursday evening. The group had such an enjoyable time together that all felt that the evening was well spent. Each table responded with something for a program, everyone was wishing everyone else many happy birthdays and the occasion was a happy experience.

Mrs. Ethel Watson To Formally Open Tea Room Sunday

Mrs. Ethel Watson, who during the past summer, successfully operated the Wayside Tea Room in Grand Detour, is formally opening the Watson Tea Room in the former Gus Lord property at 211 East Fellows street, which she recently purchased and has had completely reconitoned. Three spacious dining rooms have been furnished in an attractive and comfortable manner. One room has been arranged for private dinner parties, and the three rooms combined furnish accommodations for 50 persons. Mrs. Watson will continue the policy which proved so popular at Grand Detour during the past summer, serving home cooked food. The formal opening will take place Sunday although several have enjoyed the excellent cuisine during the past few days. Reservations are now being received for private dinner parties and the special Thanksgiving dinner which is being featured.

Schools to Display Thanksgiving Art Project Next Week

Miss Kruse, art supervisor of the city school system, wishes to call attention to a special Thanksgiving art project which has been carried on in all of the public schools, grades one to six inclusive. This is an old-fashioned community Thanksgiving table which has everything modeled out of clay. The work was assigned to the grades approximately as follows: First grade, fruit; second grade, pastry; third grade, vegetables and simple dishes; fourth grade, bowls; fifth grade, cups; sixth grade, large roasted turkey and center decoration, including a log cabin and pilgrims.

This community Thanksgiving table will be set up in the various buildings the week preceding Thanksgiving. All interested parents and friends are cordially invited to see the display.

Flying hotels for Pan American Airways trans-Atlantic service are built for 50 passengers and a crew of ten. Private cabins and sleeping compartments are in one section, a large dining lounge in another.

At Dedication

The gospel tent meetings on West First street were concluded last Sunday evening.

The new tabernacle which is being built on the corner of Fifth street and Ottawa avenue will be ready for dedication on Thanksgiving Day. Rev. Wm. Slipp said: "It has been wonderful the way the people of Dixon have responded in getting behind the building of the tabernacle and the way they have given of their means to make the tabernacle possible."

There will be special speakers on Thanksgiving Day, Rev. Charles Leaming, wife and daughter, who are noted evangelists and singers will speak at the evening services. Rev. Harry Neat of Eugene, Oregon, (above) will also be among the guest speakers.

There will be three services: 10:30 A. M., 2:30 P. M. and 7:30 P. M. The visiting delegates and evangelists will be entertained by the local people of the tabernacle. All are invited to attend these services. There will be no services until Thanksgiving.

FAMOUS TRICK BOWLING STAR AT STERLING

Andy Varipapa, world famous bowling trick shot expert, well deserves the title of "Bowling Joe Kirkwood."

Andy performed brilliantly before a capacity crowd at the Sterling Coliseum alleys Thursday night, executing some almost unbelievable shots with a regulation 16 lb. bowling ball.

Andy showed bowling screen fans how to make a bowling ball talk last season, in the movie short, "Strikes and Spares," by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and when he comes out with his new picture he will have some new tricks, which will include two shots that will go into the gutters about at the head pin, hop back onto the alley bed and pick off the pins on the opposite corners.

Besides giving some personal instruction to the many bowlers present, Andy was called upon for some real tenpin action, and proprietor A. G. Benderwald obliged by calling out some of his major city league talent.

The first exhibition game was Varipapa vs Leo Miller of Sterling. Andy opened up with a 203 count while Miller could only muster 167.

The second match Varipapa was pitted against Marshall Demay of Prophetstown who defeated Andy 212 to 209.

A. G. Benderwald was Varipapa's next opponent with 181. Andy was best man with another 209.

Ed Worley of this city defeated Varipapa in their first game with 212, Varipapa 183.

The next game both Varipapa and Worley were hot. Worley finally winning with a big 258 count against 240 for Varipapa.

80 ARRESTED IN SICILIAN CRIME ROUNDUP TODAY

Messina, Sicily, Nov. 20—(AP)—A wave of criminal activity in Sicily, similar to that of the Mafia before its suppression, has been disclosed with the arrest of 80 persons.

The prisoners, rounded up as authorities acted swiftly to prevent a recurrence of a reign of black hand terror which once afflicted the island, were charged with murder, robbery, kidnaping and other offenses.

Herded into iron cages reserved for accused in Italian courtrooms, they will go on trial on Dec. 22. The accused worked, authorities said, in the Trapani region on the western tip of Sicily which is filled with inaccessible mountain refuges.

Like the Mafia (terrorists) of old, they apparently believed in direct action against authorities. Among the persons they are charged with killing are Mayor Perricone of Vita, his brother, a prefecture commissioner and a militiaman.

Other charges against members of the group include cattle stealing and shielding of delinquents—all so-called Mafia specialties.

Igoe Being Boomed For Senatorial Nomination Now

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20—(AP)—Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, who is being boomed for the Democratic senatorial nomination, insisted it wasn't politics when he spent two hours with Governor Horner, who wants the job to go to someone other than the incumbent, Senator Dieterich.

Igoe, Federal prosecutor at Chicago, wouldn't talk about the boom launched for him by Thomas P. Sinnott of Rock Island and some other downstaters when he left the state house late yesterday, reiterating that "as long as Senator Dieterich is a candidate, naturally I will support him."

The governor, who has turned down Dieterich for a second term, hasn't indicated who will be his senatorial choice in the 1938 primary. Igoe was on the Horner side in the last Democratic split.

Says Legion To Ask "Adequate" Defense

Indianapolis, Nov. 20—(AP)—National Commander Daniel Doherty said today the American Legion would ask Congress "immediately" to enact laws for universal service in wartime, "adequate" national defense, federal protection of widows and orphans of veterans, and preference for veterans on federal projects.

The legislative program, adopted yesterday by the Legion's executive committee, was drawn up in accordance with national convention mandates, Doherty pointed out.

Before the 65 executive committee members from 58 Legion departments left for home yesterday, Doherty announced the appointment of committee chairmen for the coming year.

Natural History Survey To Explain Modern Functions

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 20—(AP)—The Illinois natural history survey, created by the legislature in 1867 to promote conservation of the state's natural resources, will begin Monday a series of radio broadcasts to explain its modern functions.

Dr. T. H. Frison, chief of the survey, will speak at 2 P. M. Monday over the University of Illinois campus station, W. I. L. L. On succeeding Mondays other members of the survey staff will be heard.

Too Busy for Honeymooning

"When I feel I can leave the business a few days, we'll take a bridal trip," announced 19-year-old Jesse Livermore, Jr., son of the Wall Street plunger, from his office at Stamford, Conn., where he recently took over a bottling company. Above he affectionately greets his bride of a few days, the beautiful young Baltimore divorcee, Mrs. Evelyn Sullivan, in a very unbusiness-like office scene.

Charge Three With Kidnaping, Murder

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 20—(AP)—A special Cabell county grand jury returned eight indictments charging three men arrested in the abduction of Dr. James I. Seder with kidnaping and murder.

Those indicted are Arnett Allen Booth, 46, Orville Adkins, 25, and James Travis, 25.

Prosecutor E. E. Winters, Jr., announced the three would be brought to Huntington from the Kanawha county jail at Charleston, probably tomorrow, and would be arraigned before Judge H. C. Warth Monday.

Their trials have been tentatively set for November 29.

Dr. Seder, retired minister and former Anti-Saloon League state superintendent, was abducted November 1 and held captive 11 days in an abandoned mine pit. He escaped but died of pneumonia caused, physicians said, by being held in the damp pit.

Federal agents declared $50,000 ransom demanded was not paid.

Fooling Art

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
New York, Nov. 20—A wooden duck that flaps its wings. A decoy that has lured scores of loons to vary the diet of three generations of Maine lighthouse keepers. A decoy shot over by President Grover Cleveland.

These and hundreds of other wildfowl images from every important duck shooting region in America make up the collection of Joel E. Barber, New York architect and outstanding authority on the art of fooling game birds.

Sportsmen are giving renewed attention to wooden decoys now that the use of live ones is prohibited by federal regulation. With the shooting of canvasback and five other species banned, the Barber collection is being used as an object lesson in conservation by such organizations as the General Wildlife Federation.

Decoy making goes back to prehistoric man in America. Indians long before Columbus, made fine decoys out of reeds and brought wildfowl within range of their arrows by mounting the heads of ducks and geese on sticks and displaying them above the grass.

If Ducks Aren't Too Smart
Modern American decoy-making is one of this country's native handicrafts and had its origin in the old days of market shooting.

"The art of the boat builder, sculptor, and painter is combined in turning out a good decoy," explains Barber, in his fashionable east side studio apartment, where he devotes idle evenings to the carving of decoys. He has written a book on the subject.

"Sportsmen tie their own flies and make their own rods and archery gear," Barber points out, "so why shouldn't they learn to make decoys? There is no more fascinating activity for the home work shop."

"A beginner's first decoys will work, if the ducks aren't too smart. In Louisiana, newspapers are spread out on the marshes to lure geese. In Utah, mud is heaped into lumps to bring in ducks."

"On the other hand, educated ducks and geese are mighty critical."

"A decoy should be slightly oversize. It's body and shape must be a compromise between the form of the duck and a model that will ride steadily in the water. Its coloring should resemble the plumage of birds at the time of year when they are hunted."

Birds Return with Conservation
Barber has made a decoy movie on behalf of National Wildlife Restoration, to be held next March.

He has decoys 100 years old. Most of his decoys date back to the days of unlimited gunning, when the vast clouds of migrating wildfowl were looked upon as inexhaustible.

Several years ago the sudden realization came upon sportsmen that ducks were close to extinction. Drainage projects had transformed many of the vast duck factories of northwestern states into mortgaged, unproductive farms. Drought heaped up the calamity.

Ducks are returning, thanks to constructive restoration measures, some of which were viewed as being too severe when put into force. The sport of duck hunting will not be denied future generations, if nation-wide co-operation is maintained.

Meanwhile, Architect Barber will carve better and brighter decoys.

AMBERS' CROWN ENDANGERED BY NEGRO MENACE

New York, Nov. 20—(AP)—There was a feeling in informed circles around here today that Lou Ambers, the lightweight boxing champion, would keep his title only as long as he managed to stay out of the same ring with Henry Armstrong.

In scoring a technical five-round knockout over Billy Beauhault, a useful lightweight, last night at the Garden, Armstrong, convinced 14,000 fans he was ripe to exchange his featherweight crown for the 135-pound sceptre.

Fight Stopped

The Ebony Torpedo gave Beauhault such a painful hiding that Referee Donovan stopped it as soon as the bell ended the fifth round. Beauhault, undefeated in his previous 44 straight fights, looked like he had been shoved through a concrete mixer head first.

Armstrong, who knocked out Pete Saron recently to win undisputed possession of the feather title, weighed 132½ last night, and the little Negro appeared to revel in the extra poundage. Beauhault, two pounds heavier, made a courageous effort to hold off his opponent's savage onslaughts and he gave the crowd its money's worth, but he never had a chance of going the route.

A swinging right put Beauhault down for nine in the first round, and he was on the canvas for seven when the fifth ended.

Bills of exchange and promissory notes in Great Britain and Ireland are payable on the preceding business day when the last day of grace falls on Christmas or Good Friday.

HARVARD-ELI TILT STEEPED IN TRADITION

Number One Battle Of Football Card In the East

New York, Nov. 20—(AP)—They've got that old feeling, that Harvard can lick Yale, up at Cambridge.

And that, plus the sentiment and tradition that yearly is draped around two of college football's oldest and proudest names, makes the clash of the Bulldogs and the gent in the funny hat the nation's No. 1 game on the last and perhaps most interesting "big day" of the season.

The Yales and Harvards first got together for a little friendly mayhem in 1875. The Dark Blue has won 32 of the games to the Crimson's 17 with six ending in ties.

Albie Booth of Yale droppedkicked a field goal to beat the Johnnies in 1931. Since then the Harvards have tried vainly to take one.

This may be the day. Equipped with a powerful running attack, which is studied with masked plays and a deceptive spinner, Harvard has a finely-coordinated attack.

Against this, Yale points one of the games great backs, Clint Frank. The Blue has the kicker of the day in Dave Colwell and nine or 10 other young men who can beat opportunity to the knock.

At Syracuse Ossie Solem's first eleven is "up" for the Colgate game and the end of a 13-year losing streak against the Maroon. Colgate is struggling to come back after a miserable season.

Rams Bid for Bowl
Fordham, bidding hard for the Rose Bowl, meets the last of its intersectional opponents in St. Mary's. The Gaels aren't as tough as usual but the winners of this one will know they've been in a ball game.

Columbia, striving vainly to get out of the mire, plays unbeaten Dartmouth, Holy Cross entertains Carnegie Tech, mighty Pitt takes on Penn State, Princeton meets Navy, and Temple tests Villanova in other major contests along the eastern front.

Notre Dame, facing a possible letdown after the Army triumph, encounters a tough Northwestern eleven in the midwest's extra-conference showdown, with Nebraska vs. Iowa and Marquette vs. Duquesne also in the fore.

The Big Ten presents a four-star finale in Minnesota-Wisconsin, Michigan-Ohio State, Illinois-Chicago and Indiana-Purdue. Stanford and California, early settlers in coast football, meet in a crossroads game. A victory for either team will send it on the way to Pasadena and the Rose Bowl. A tie will send the selectors to the most convenient padded cell.

California at Los Angeles plays Southern Methodist, Washington encounters Oregon and Oregon State clashes with Washington State in other feature games.

Deep peace broods over most of the south for Alabama's Crimson Tide is becalmed. But Georgia and Auburn, Florida and Georgia Tech, and Tulane and Sewanee should make it interesting. The southwest chimes in with Texas Christian and Rice, Baylor and Loyola (Los Angeles) and Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. and M.

Minnesota Stakes Hope For Western Conference Crown

Minneapolis, Nov. 20—(AP)—Minnesota carries hopes for undisputed claim to the Western conference football championship into battle today against one of its traditional gridiron opponents, the University of Wisconsin Badgers.

The lone remaining undefeated team in the loop as a result of four straight league victories, Minnesota's Gophers, out of the national picture after having reigned at the top for three straight years, can bring a successful season to a close with a victory today. A tie also would give the Gophers the title.

A crowd of approximately 50,000 persons was expected to include 12,000 Badger fans.

Snowflurries Are Chilly Forecast For Bloomington

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 20—(AP)—A forecast of "snow flurries and continued cold" failed to discourage thousands of hardy fans who came here today for the 40th annual flareup of Indiana and Purdue's football feud.

Purdue captured 21 previous encounters and Indiana, 13. Five battles resulted in ties.

CORNELL'S GRID SUCCESS DUE TO INTREPID COACH

First Conference Crown Won Since 1927 Season

Mt. Vernon, Ia., Nov. 20—To stocky, tough, Coach "Dick" Barker goes a great deal of the credit for Cornell's impressive football record this season. Called the "Bull" behind his back by generations of football players, he has built football teams by making them as tough as himself and making them like it. "An athlete at Cornell stands on his own," says Coach Barker. "If a man is too dumb to get by the professors, he is too dumb to play football for me." And surprisingly, the psychology has worked—this year's team is well up in academic standing.

The success of this year's Purple eleven comes almost as a culmination to several seasons of "near-perfect" records. In his first year as head football coach in 1926, Barker produced a championship eleven; undefeated, but tied by Monmouth. Again in 1927, the Mt. Vernon team annexed the Midwest title but lost to the University of Wisconsin. Twice since then, in 1930 and 1935, Midwest championships have been lost because of a 7-6 defeat each season.

Came in 1922

It was in 1922 that Barker came to Cornell, leaving in 1923 to coach wrestling and freshman football at the University of Michigan, and returning to the athletic directorship of Cornell in 1925 after the resignation of "Polly" Wallace. In 1922 he organized the first wrestling team at Cornell. Used first to condition athletes for other sports, it soon grew into one of the major sports and the one in which Cornell has always held its own in Olympic and Big Ten competition.

Almost from the first, Barker coached wrestlers started winning championships in a prolific manner. Every Olympic team since 1924 has had a Cornell wrestler; the 1936

Paw Paw Defeated By Hinckley 41-27 Opening Cage Game

(Telegraph Sports Service)
Paw Paw, Nov. 20—Paw Paw of the G. R. V. C. submitted to a 41 to 27 drubbing by Hinckley in its opening basketball game here Friday night.

Led by their speedy forward L. Doner who totalled fifteen points on six goals and three gift shots, the Hinckley team jumped into a 15 to 12 half time lead after being tied 7 to 7 in the first quarter. In the third frame Hinckley was ahead 27 to 15 by outscoring Paw Paw 12 to 3 in the third period.

Doreis, Hinckley center, and Ramer, Hinckley guard each counted the points to aid the rout. Coss was Paw Paw's luminary. He sank three baskets and six free shots for twelve points.

member being 123 pound Dale "Pee-Wee" Brand, who is also a half-back on this year's winning football team. By 1928 Barker's prowess and reputation had extended beyond Iowa and he was called to Sweden to coach Swedish Olympic wrestling team.

Best Iowa State Guard
At Iowa State college in 1916, '17, '19, Barker earned the distinction of being the best guard ever to play at the Ames school. He was nominated for the mythical all-Western team in 1919, and was on the all-Iowa, and all-Missouri Valley teams during all three years of his college competition. In 1919, when Barker was captain of the all-Iowa team, a game was scheduled and played with Fort Dodge (the only game an all-Iowa team has actually played) which the college stars won 7-0 in sub-zero weather.

Surprisingly Barker did not take up wrestling until after he had closed his football career and it was not until 1920 and '21 that he competed. In 1921 he topped the 175 pound wrestlers and won the national intercollegiate title. Never since has he been beaten at this weight and today, sixteen years later, he defends that record against his wrestlers at Cornell.

WHAT? NO TREZELS

Murphysboro, Ill. —(AP)—Twenty-four threshers staged a sit-down strike near here, refusing to thresh six remaining loads of wheat bunched unless the owner served beer and sandwiches. The owner capitulated.

Frozen

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 20—(AP)—Ben Crackel, ground-keeper of Memorial Stadium, hopes he'll be able to let Chicago and Illinois play football today.

The field is fast and dry but here's what's worrying Crackel: It's covered with a $10,000 tarpaulin, which yesterday's storm covered with about four inches of snow. A slight thaw, followed by a cold wind, froze edges of the "blanket" to the ground.

Crackel vows he'll have the tarpaulin elsewhere by game time, even if he has to recruit the players and arm them with ice picks.

(Telegraph Sports Service)

Franklin Grove, Nov. 20— Before a crowd of 600 people in the Franklin Grove community gymnasium, Ashton high's basketball team launched their basketball season by trouncing Franklin Grove 34 to 23, Friday night.

Paced by its giant six foot five inch center, Boyenga, who looped in seven field goals and a free throw for fifteen points, Ashton strode into a 16 to 11 lead at half time. Hatch starred for Franklin Grove with 11 points.

In the preliminary game between the two "B" teams Franklin Grove downed Ashton 12 to 4. Both teams are members of the Green River Valley conference.

POE, HARRISON TIED FOR FIRST, MID-SOUTH OPEN

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 20—(AP)—

Henry Clay Poe, 20-year-old Durham golfer who tied for first place in the Mid-South tournament in his professional debut, was "born and raised" on a golf course.

The youthful newcomer to the pro ranks, with E. J. Harrison, of Little Rock, Ark., another freshman among the pros, turned in sub-par performances to lead the field.

Poe shot a 72 on the first 18 holes and came back yesterday with an 80. Harrison, who won the Mississippi open last August, turned in two rounds of 71.

Son of Golf Pro

Poe is the son of Henry Poe, professional at the Hillandale golf course at Durham, and the first set of sticks he owned was a baby set, fashioned by his father.

Egyptian Prince Dies in Turkey

Istanbul, Turkey, Nov. 20—(AP)—Prince Ahmed Seif El Dine, brother-in-law of the late King Fuad of Egypt, and one-time inmate of an English mental home from which he escaped after 25 years of confinement, died Friday. The 56-year-old prince was a brother of Fuad's first wife, Princess Chivekar. He had lived quietly in the Bosphorus after a tempestuous earlier life which gained him the title of "Mad Prince of Egypt." He was committed to the English institution at Sussex following his attempt to shoot Fuad in a Cairo club in 1898 because he believed the king was mistreating his (Fuad's) wife.

CHAPTER III

THE heraldic crowing of Ma Pelphry's roosters, amplified by clear atmosphere and a complete lack of other sound, awoke Mary Melissa Lane next morning. She jumped out of bed, startled.

The others had eaten. Hades Jones and the younger man, Holliman, were already busy with the myriad details of making packs for the mules and horses. Bob Barry sat beside the parlor lamp, working with pencil and papers.

"Morning!" he greeted her, cheerily. "Sorry to haul you out at midnight, but it's a custom out here."

She was embarrassed, but she covered it with a smile. "I'll get used to it—I hope. Please forgive me. But I really had no idea about the time to arise. And no alarm clock, except the roosters."

They laughed at that, but she quickly spoke again.

"Dr. Barry, I hope you believe me when I say I want to work as well as put up the money for this trip. I admit I'm inexperienced, but—"

He grinned at her. "Stout fellow! But take it easy, and learn as you go along. We'll divide up the duties when we get to camp, if you like. There'll be a deal of book work, records and such. You can help there I know."

"Can't I do something now? Today?"

HE thought for a moment before he answered that.

"Why perhaps you can. One item of equipment I overlooked yesterday is some clothing for the cook. I arranged for one before you came. He's an Indian, and he's to meet us at my shack. But all redskins are penniless, Miss Lane. How'd it do for you to slip over to the store and get him some clothes and tobacco? Store opens at 6 o'clock."

"All right," she agreed.

She gave thought to the matter while eating her breakfast. The meal, incidentally, was a challenge. Ma Pelphry apparently expected a slight city girl to consume six enormous hotcakes, and butter and syrup; three fried eggs; a plateful of biscuits, fresh and hot; assorted cuts of beefsteak dipped in flour and fried, with thick gravy beside them; a jar of squawberry jam; a mug—not a cup—of cavalry-type coffee.

"Lissa thought it best not to appear surprised, but she wondered how to keep from hurting Mrs. Pelphry's feelings. In the end, however, she found that she had done amazingly well.

"Now come and I'll help pack your things for the trip," Ma suggested.

"Thank you, they're all packed. I mean—" She had given this detail no thought, really. Suddenly she remembered the very small bags assembled there by Hades Jones and Holliman. For an absence of at least a month, she observed, they couldn't have more than one change of clothing each. Wise Ma Pelphry appeared to read her thoughts.

"You won't really need much, honey," she counseled. "Just strong outdoor things. Now that pretty good town, it—"

"But it's my bathrobe, Mrs. Pelphry!"

"It may be, honey, but you won't need it. You will be miles from any water hole. Even old Hades can't pack in water for your bath every night. But it'll be all right."

MARY MELISSA regarded this with dismay. The little intimacies of her routine life, she realized, would have to be sadly altered. Silently she thanked herself, for the tenth time already, for deciding not to bring a maid to Arizona. But she just hadn't given any thought to such services as the hairdressers, manicurists, and her beloved shower bath.

When Ma was through with her, she looked fine. She wore cowboy denim pants—"they're most practical of all," Ma declared—and hiking boots, a mannish red shirt, and a real man's hat which Ma had given her with the promise that it would ward off the Arizona sun.

"Great!" exclaimed Dr. Barry when he saw her. "I was afraid you'd be a little—well, dudish. You know what I mean. But you look—"

He swallowed. After all, he wasn't sure of himself now. Telling a girl she looks cute and smart takes finesse anywhere, and Dr. Robert Wilson Barry was more at home with prehistoric pots and shards, abandoned caves and Indian signs.

"He likes me," Mary Melissa decided instantly. She hadn't even noticed what he was saying. But intuitively she saw and appreciated his glow. In the same fleeting moment she noticed that he himself was quite presentable, but he hadn't fooled her any. Over the night he had managed to get a hair cut and a shave, concessions to the fact that his new partner was a woman.

With the storekeeper's help, she purchased two pair of trousers, two blue shirts, two sox and brogan shoes for the Indian cook.

Car and Engine Carry Two to Death in 400-Foot Drop

A trainload of passengers miraculously escaped death or injury in a spectacular wreck in the Feather River gorge near Pulga, Cal., that sent the locomotive and a mail car hurtling 400 feet down the embankment into the stream and killing two persons. Battered in their rough roll down the rock strewn slope, the engine and car lie in the water while officials investigate the wreckage. A large rock on the track was blamed for the accident.

Improved lighting on 31 miles of Detroit streets has reduced the number of fatal traffic accidents to only five night fatalities and four day fatalities in the four to eight months that the system has been operating.

When oil vapor from the oil-filler tube is drawn into the generator the brushes often gum up and stop charging the battery on some cars that have air-cooled generators.

CROP CONTROL IS OPPOSED BY GRANGE GROUPOrganization Says Plans
Based On Scarcity Are Detrimental

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor
Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 20—(AP)—Opposition to crop production control takes its place in the National Grange's declared policies today, but with the reservation that cotton and tobacco may be possible exceptions.

Delegates from the Southland, where farmers produced so much cotton this year they hardly know what to do with it, forced the possible exceptions to be included in resolutions adopted at final sessions yesterday of the organization's 71st annual convention.

Otherwise, opposition was expressed to any program based upon economic scarcity, on the grounds that a curtailment program or destruction of large quantities of food products eventually would prove detrimental to the people.

Only Solution
Satisfactory solution of the problem now facing American agriculture, the resolution said, lies in bringing about better distribution systems and increased purchasing power for citizens.

Marketing agreements, as a means of control after production, provided at least 65 per cent of the producers in volume and number above the program, was suggested as a way to handle surpluses. Support was pledged for co-operative marketing associations which are farmer-owned and farmer-controlled.

Throughout its discussion, the Grange insisted the family-sized farm be given every possible consideration, and emphasized that in all marketing agreements, maximum benefits and basic exemptions should be accorded that group.

DAILY HEALTH

ABOUT ARTHRITIS

By Iago Galdston, M. D.

Today arthritis is recognized as one of the most widespread disabilities. From every viewpoint, individual and communal, it reveals itself to be a major plague.

To the affected person it is likely to cause much pain, physical deformity and helplessness.

From the social viewpoint, arthritis is a heavy economic burden, representing millions of dollars in wages lost, and in the cost of the medical care and hospitalization required by the arthritis sufferers.

Oddly enough, arthritis is a very ancient disease. The Egyptians were notoriously affected, and throughout history we find isolated references to this crippling malady.

Until recent times comparatively little was understood as to the differences in forms and origin of the various kinds of arthritis. All of them were lumped together under the heading of joint rheumatism.

How baffling this malady proved to the older generations of physicians may be noted in the pathetic medical history of Scarron, the great French wit, who was a victim of rheumatoid arthritis, and the self-appointed "Sick one to her Majesty the Queen, Marie Theresa."

Modern medicine, with the aid of the X-ray and by means of a variety of laboratory tests, has been able to break down "joint rheumatism" into its component parts. Arthritis is now understood as a generic term, indicating disease of the joint structures. There are different types or forms of arthritis, distinguished according to cause, and certain features.

There is traumatic arthritis, the kind due to injury or accident. There is arthritis due to specific micro-organisms, such as tuberculosis, syphilis and gonorrhea. And there is the arthritis due to wear and tear, the so-called osteoarthritis. We distinguish all of these from the most significant form of this malady—rheumatoid arthritis.

It is rheumatoid arthritis that does the greatest damage, and is the most challenging phase of the arthritis problem. Its cause is undetermined. It is frequently a chronic, progressive condition, marked by periods of let-up when the pain and joint involvements seemingly improve, and by subsequent relapses during which the disease makes further headway.
